

Tax Assessors Get Update On Legal, Economic Changes

May 21, 2012

Members of the Hall County Board of Assessors will attend CAVEAT (Current Ad valorem Edicts and Trends) in Athens at the Carl Vinson Institute of Government May 21 - 23.

CAVEAT is a 20-hour course, recommended by the Department of Revenue for county tax officials, focused on legal and economic changes faced by assessors and appraisers. The program offers analysis of recent ad valorem taxation laws that have been passed, defeated, or interpreted by the courts. Presentations by attorneys, legislators, and appraisal experts will provide tax officials with the latest information on ad valorem tax matters and Department of Revenue policy changes.
