

Tax Commissioner's Office Closing For Move

October 15, 2012

The Hall County Tax Commissioner's Office will be closed on Oct. 16 and Oct. 17 for relocation to the new Hall County Government Center, located at 2875 Browns Bridge Road in Gainesville.

"Anyone who has a birthday that falls on one of those two dates will not be penalized if they make a payment on Thursday, Oct. 18, when our office reopens in the new government center," said Hall County Tax Commissioner Keith Echols.

Other county departments will continue to move into the new building through the end of October. Consolidating the county's numerous department locations will improve customer service, increase staff efficiency, reduce operational cost and eliminate office space rentals.
